Philosophy of Uniforms: A Letter to Accompany the Uniform Guide

Agathos students are on a journey together. Their journey is meant to bring them to a broad, fruitful place of knowing, understanding, and living in this world. Though the path is bumpy and the journey is long, the desire is to build a culture, community, and classroom environment that leads our children in a unified way toward these ends. We think setting specific expectations for uniforms can help us in this way.

For our school's history, the dress code has been received by families with great charity. It has been a way of loving each other even in the trifles. May this brotherly love continue (Phil. 2:1-5).

Our uniform requirement is rooted in certain aesthetic assumptions.

Setting matters. We act and work and worship differently in different sorts of spaces. We want Agathos classrooms to have a specific feel and ambiance that leads us to our desired ends. We know that learning can happen-and that an education can be obtained-in different kinds of spaces, but we seek to make our classrooms have a look and feel that is simple, careful, tidy, elevating, and home-like. We desire to put more care into the appearance of our halls and classrooms and demonstrate this commitment to our students.

Dress matters. We act and work differently in different styles of dress. This is easy to observe when a young child puts on a police costume, but it affects us day-to-day in the attire of our work. We believe our uniform policy helps our students grow intellectually in habits of order and structure. It frees our students from distractions and helps them in their pursuit of deeper qualities on which to build a Christian identity and community.

The dress code is not neutral. It is a meaningful expression of honor that we are eager to maintain. We want the Agathos school uniform to:

- Provide ease. We are making the morning decisions much simpler.
- Look professional. Our students have a vocation of learning, and a uniform helps them remember it.
- Promote camaraderie as part of a beautiful community of orderliness and care.
- Offer comfort for the occasion.
- Ensure quality and affordability.

Lands' End is our primary provider. Though their retail pricing is higher than we like to pay, they warranty their clothing well, have good sale prices, and offer solid resale/consignment values.

As in so many other cultural decisions, Agathos has chosen a high road on uniforms. The way that the faculty, staff, and students dress is meant to be elevated; it expresses the importance of the work we're doing and the care and love we long to put into it.

We have not found these standards onerous, but we have found them to free us to think and act in elevated ways about these important subjects and ideas we address each day. The way we dress affects our academics and affects our hearts. There is a disciplined practice and pleasure of obedience to be enjoyed by submitting to a standard dress code.

“So if there is any encouragement in Christ, any comfort from love, any participation in the Spirit, any affection and sympathy, complete my joy by being of the same mind, having the same love, being in full accord and of one mind. Do nothing from selfish ambition or conceit, but in humility count others more significant than yourselves. <sup>4</sup> Let each of you look not only to his own interests, but also to the interests of others. Have this mind among yourselves, which is yours in Christ Jesus.” Philippians 2:1-5
